Configuration goals:

This project, entitled Business Law in Algeria, which is attributed to the specialization of private law, aims to train the student in the principles and provisions of business law in order to prepare him for practical life to face economic challenges in the field of development under the policy of good governance.

In view of the nature of the subject and the extrapolation of all its problems, a master's degree was built from a set of standards in the form of consecutive and coherent episodes that complement the basic study in the field of business law based on theoretical and applied specialization in the field of investment.

This study will mainly depend on enabling the student to understand the most important laws that govern investment in Algeria and compare them with international agreements in this field, and what Algeria has adopted in terms of international commitments towards the European Community and international organizations concerned with investment.

The methodology of the study will be divided into four (04) hexagons - which will be detailed later - through which the student will finally be able to familiarize himself with the details of the subject in order to enable him to deepen his knowledge in doctoral studies.

We will focus on the following themes:

- An analytical legal study of the financial and banking system in Algeria, identifying its structure and methods of financing investment in the substantive and procedural aspects and controlling it, and standing up to the problems of the financial system that impede the development of investment.

- Studying the structures of foreign and domestic investment and the guarantees granted to encourage foreign direct and national investment.

Entry conditions:

- After priority is given to students of the Law Department of the University of Guelma, holders of a bachelor's degree in legal sciences, a classic system, come in second place in terms of priority, provided that their percentage does not exceed 20% of the total number of the master's batch, and this is after fulfilling the enrollment conditions mentioned above in paragraph
